Cabinet Has Made It Clear Hitler's Ultimatum Is Unacceptable

(BULLETIN)

PRAGUE, Sept. 26.—(1:45 p. m.)—The Czechoslovak government, this afternoon drafted a new note to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler rejecting Germany's ultimatum for immediate surrender of the Sudetenland as unacceptable. The note was being handed to Basil Newton, British minister here, for transmission to the Fuehrer in time for him to study it before he addresses the German nation in his "historic manifestation" speech at the Berlin sportsplatz.

PRAGUE, Sept. 26.—Girded for war, but greatly heartened by President Roosevelt's message to Chancellor Hitler and President Benes, Czechoslovakia today sat tight and awaited Berlin's next move.

Prague already has made it abundantly clear in an official broadcast that Hitler's ultimatum for surrender of the Sudeten sections by Oct. 1 is unacceptable.

While Prague's confidence has been bolstered by unmistakable evidence of French and British support for that stand, this government has not slammed the door on further negotiations.

These are corn cutting days on the farm. In hundreds of Lawrence county cornfields the "swish" of the blade is heard, and sturdy farmers are putting the stalks in shocks. Corn cutting develops the muscles, also the appetite.

Top buggies are becoming almost as extinct as the dodo. Occasionally a motorist meets one while traversing Lawrence county highways, but it is generally of a vintage of 20 years or more. Out in Pittsfield, Ill., a top buggy dealer has just sold the last of a consignment he received 15 years ago. He also had one buggy whip left, and it went to the purchaser of the buggy. There are still horse and buggy outfits operating here and there, but the days when a youthful swain took his best girl out for a buggy ride on Sunday are about gone forever.

The way of the transgressor may be hard, but the path of the public official, who may be trying to do his duty, is no bed of roses. This conclusion has been reached after hearing some of the experiences of the county commissioners who have

Business Men Heard At Sales Crusade Breakfast

Encouraged on all sides and determined all the more to accelerate their efforts, New Castle's "Sales Men Jobs" crusaders rallied again this morning for their fifth breakfast. Five representatives of local business organizations were the morning speakers. Louis B. Round, general chairman of the National Salesmen's Crusade here, presided.

The group plans to gather at the hotel Monday morning, October 3, for another breakfast.

Speaking today were Ezra D. Marvin, E. E. Seary, William A. Francis, R. F. Horchler and Clarence W. Irwin.

Horchler, president of the Seventh Ward Civic association, brought greetings from merchants in that section and pledged their "full cooperation" in all crusade activities.

The other speakers reported sales crusade experiences and offered suggestions that might be followed up.

One of the city's most active businessmen, Mr. Seary, who spoke early in the morning, told the group that "in my 50 years of business I've seen plants come and go, but a new plant always comes to replace them."

Francis, one of the crusade leaders, told the audience that "you'll find doubting Thomases in every major effort you make, no matter what it is." He directed attention to the crusade's benefit to sales forces.

The campaign progresses at full speed and within short time another "merchandising clinic" is planned for the city's salespeople. Last week a large crowd of business representatives and store clerks listened to a stimulating message addressed by Henry W. Stanley of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. Stanley may be brought back for another address, it is understood.

"The devastation was dreadful," said Hopkins on his arrival by airplane at East Boston airport after a view of the damage in hard-hit Rhode Island.

Chamberlain In Final Appeal To Hitler For Peace

Sends Personal Message To Hitler After Action By Roosevelt

NEW PROPOSALS ARE PRESENTED

Appeal By President Roosevelt Creates Sensation In Great Britain

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Prime Minister Chamberlain, inspired by President Roosevelt's eleventh-hour appeal for European peace, today suddenly followed suit with a personal message to Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

A high-ranking emissary was sent speeding by air to Berlin with an urgent plea from Chamberlain for Hitler to modify his Oct. 1 demands on Czechoslovakia and open the way for a peaceful solution.

"Final Effort"

Chamberlain's note, unofficially termed a "final effort," also embodied an elaborate alternative set of proposals as a basis on which agreement might be reached, it was understood.

Premier Daladier and foreign minister Bonnet of France will fly back to Paris at 3 p. m. to await Hitler's reaction.

A British government spokesman close to Chamberlain said it was hoped the new formula being suggested by the prime minister would bridge the gulf between the German memorandum and the original French-British proposals for cession of Sudetenland.

At least, he said, it might narrow the area of difference to permit matters again to enter the negotiations stage.

Gratified at Roosevelt Move

The same authority also expressed gratification that President Roosevelt is now indirectly taking part in peace efforts.

Mr. Roosevelt's message, said the spokesman, "produced the most favorable impression" on the British government, which in any future conversations with Hitler will be able to point to the views conveyed by the President in the name of 130,000,000 Americans.

Even as the Roosevelt and Chamberlain appeals were dispatched, however, French and British statesmen and military leaders met again and worked out details of both diplomatic and fighting collaboration.

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt sent a dramatic eleventh-hour appeal to Berlin and Prague to spare the world the "madness" of war.

LONDON—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain sent a personal message to the Fuehrer and a set of counter-proposals designed to maintain peace. Britain summoned parliament and distributed gas masks.

BERLIN—Plunked by his military high command, the Fuehrer stood by his guns in demanding immediate dismemberment of Czechoslovakia, intimating his speech at Nazi Germany's "historic manifestation" tonight would answer all questions.

PRAGUE—Czechoslovakia, girded for war, sat back to await Hitler's next move, still hopeful peaceful negotiations may eventuate.

PARIS—United States embassy advised all Americans in France to return home as Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet included their politico-military conversations in London and headed back to a swiftly-mobilizing France.

House Graft Probe Reopens Tuesday

Margiotti Will Resume Stand

Committee To Call New Witness To Testify On Some Of Charges Made

MAY REFUTE SOME STATEMENTS MADE

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Sept. 26.—One of the first events on the program of the house graft investigation when it reopens tomorrow afternoon will be the appearance of a man whom the house committee believes will effectively disprove one of former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti's most sensational charges.

The man is Herbert W. Goodall, president of the Tradesmen's National Bank & Trust company of Philadelphia, in the files of which bank, Margiotti had intimated, could be found a photostatic copy of a $75,000 check which allegedly passed through the account of A. M. Greenfield & Co. to the Democratic state committee.

Margiotti linked the check with the alleged sale of Sunday movie legislation during the 1935 legislature. Margiotti said he received his information about the photostatic check from an otherwise unidentified "William Jones" who wrote him a letter.

To Call Goodall. In Philadelphia, however, Howard E. Deady, the bank's cashier, stated a search of the Greenfield account showed no such check or photostatic copy in the amount named. A written statement to that effect is now in the possession of committee counsel, but the committee decided to call Goodall himself to testify in view of the wide publicity given Margiotti's statement. Greenfield is an associate in the newspaper field of J. David Stern, newspaper publisher, who was linked by Margiotti with the alleged sale of movie legislation. Both Greenfield and Stern have denied all of Margiotti's allegations.

Margiotti will resume the stand when the hearings reopen and it is expected the so-called Erie gravel scandal will be thoroughly gone into. Maj. Lynn G. Adams is scheduled to be called also in this connection. Adams, while state superintendent of police, conducted the investigation into the case. Margiotti has the original and said to be the only report on the investigation prepared by Adams, who is now chief investigator for District Attorney Carl B. Shelley.

make Europe pause before it plunges into a new war. Chamberlain's move, the early morning news from Washington disclosed all other developments of the crisis on London's front pages.

Stirs Britain "Mr. Roosevelt has sent a 'save-peace' S.O.S. to Europe," a big banner headline in the Evening News proclaimed.

"The voice of the United States has awakened," the Evening Star rejoiced, reminding its readers: "It was the United States which sent the die against Germany in the last war. Mr. Roosevelt is a worthy successor of President Wilson."

The two personal moves by the leading statesmen of Europe and America brought some hope to anxious Britain today, yet everywhere preparations for war were visible.

All over the country there were long lines in front of city halls, churches and schools where the public was filing on gas masks.

Arrangement of the Chamberlain message came after another meeting with Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet of France.

Reached Accord The British and French "reached a full accord on all points," a Downing street communiqué made known. Chamberlain then sent off his message to Berlin, an act almost as dramatic as his two trips to Germany, and then met with the cabinet for the fourth session in three days.

The premier, said the communiqué, "had a further consultation with the French ministers this morning."

"The prime minister, with the full approval of the French ministers, decided to make a personal communication to the German chancellor."

"Sir Horace Wilson has left for Berlin for this purpose."

Sir Horace, one of the foreign office's central European experts, departed at once by air.

General Marie-Gustave Gamelin, head of the French general staff and the man who, under anglo-french agreement, will be generalissimo of their combined armies in the event of war, arrived here by air today.

Important Decisions He came to join in the British-French conversations which have already resulted in these important decisions:

- 1.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler's "ultimatum" demanding surrender of Sudetenland by this coming Saturday is not acceptable to Paris, London or Prague.
- 2.—France and Britain will send a joint appeal to Germany, advising Hitler that Czechoslovakia has reached the limit of her concessions.
- 3.—France has reaffirmed her military obligations to Czechoslovakia.
- 4.—Franco-British general staff talks are to be resumed at once.
- 5.—The United States will continue to be informed speedily on all developments.

President Roosevelt's plea to Chancellor Hitler and President Benes is being closely examined by Prime Ministers Chamberlain and Daladier of Britain and France, who received duplicate copies of the message.

Although official comment was withheld pending a full study, Mr. Roosevelt's action was regarded as a tremendous contribution to the cause of peace, and it was hoped that it would serve as a brake on conditions that are rapidly growing worse.

All the evening newspapers carried banner headlines on the American president's intervention, and editions were quickly snapped up by the worried public.

It simply goes to show to what depths some people will go in their efforts to enforce unjust demands. The commissioners pay no attention to such threats.

This interesting bit of information is given out by a noted chemist who has been dissecting the onion and studying the effect of its juices on the human system. Grandma probably never studied chemistry, but she knew her onions, and when a member of the household got a cold, it wasn't long until an onion was in the roasting pan. She knew that the roasted onion helped a cold, but probably could not give the technical reason. The chemist supplies it by saying that the juice of an onion is a strong destroyer of bacteria.

Industrial Committee Makes Report Of Progress To City Council

LAUNCHING PLANS FOR MORE INDUSTRY

Herb D. McGoun, Norman E. Clark and L. B. Round, industrial committee, named by council some time ago to investigate the possibility of acquiring vacant industrial property for plants which may desire to locate here reported to council in city hall Monday.

The report said the committee had met with a friendly and co-operative attitude. They suggested council approve the proposed organization of a body to be known as the Greater New Castle association. Its purpose is to promote economic well-being and co-operation by citizens.

Council immediately passed a resolution asking the committee to continue their work and endorsed the proposed Greater New Castle association so that it may obtain its aim and called upon citizens to support the association for the welfare of all citizens here.

The report of the committee follows:

New Castle, Pa. September 24, 1938.

Honorable Council of the City of New Castle, Lawrence County, Pa. Gentlemen:

Your committee appointed, pursuant to resolution, for the purpose of looking into the possibility of acquiring vacant industrial properties, respectfully present the within progress report.

The committee has had meetings with the owners and/or responsible managers of several vacant properties and have been most cordially received and friendly and co-operative attitude has characterized the meetings, and the committee is of the unanimous opinion that there is a greater possibility of proceeding constructively along the line outlined than we at first believed possible.

Your committee is not in a position to quote any prices, but we are in a position to state that if certain preliminary steps are undertaken and vigorously pushed to conclusion, the opportunities look promising.

There is in process of formation a proposed organization to be known as "The Greater New Castle Association," the purpose of which is to promote our general economic well-being through co-operative effort on the part of our citizens. Some such organization is necessarily the prelude to the formation of a non-profit corporation, the intended purpose of which shall be to acquire, on the behalf of the citizenry, vacant industrial sites and buildings, make such repairs as may be needed to put them in habitable shape, and dispose of the same by sale, gift or lease, whichever under the circumstances may be deemed expedient to the advancement of the purpose for which said corporation will be formed.

Your committee, therefore, respectfully recommends that the municipal council, by resolution, endorse speedy development of "The Greater New Castle Association" and the effective support thereof by all our citizens; and upon the said association being properly launched that it be requested to form a non-profit corporation for the purpose of taking title to and holding real estate, on behalf of all the citizens, so that the municipal council shall, by resolution, make known to the aforesaid association if, as and when the respective organization is perfected and title to property and real estate acquired, that the municipal council will co-operate to the fullest extent in the aims and objects of said corporation.

Your committee believes that the encouragement and cooperation given to the recommendations herewith will place your committee in a much stronger position to pursue the studies for which the committee has been created.

Respectfully submitted, HERB D. MCGOUN, Chairman. NORMAN E. CLARK. L. B. ROUND.

As people very seldom visit funeral homes when not in need of the services of a funeral director, there are a lot of people who do not know the difference between one funeral home and another. Therefore, we must try to have them vision just what an up-to-date funeral home is like.

Some of the advantages that we have are a private family room where people can be comfortable, hear the services and still not be mingling with the public. We have a private room for the casket, which makes it possible for the public to take their leave without causing any embarrassment to either them or the family.

Another, and one of our greatest advantages, is, caskets and coils are not loaded and unloaded out and into the conveyances out in the open, in the rain, or under the public's gaze, but this is all done under cover. Therefore, weather does not interfere, or travel past our home does not embarrass a family while loading a funeral.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

THIRD SCHOOL CHILD REQUIRES UNDERSTANDING

SOME TEACHERS are very considerate of the timid, lonely child at school and very clever at helping him acquire social courage. A few, just because of their great sympathy, will make this child dependent on them, rendering him still less eager and able to adapt himself socially to his fellows. Sometimes the young school child who sticks too closely to mother finds in the teacher a mother-substitute. Her problem is to help him gradually to find enjoyment at play with other children—the problem, indeed, concerning any non-social child at school.

Unfortunately many teachers seem not to be at all aware of the sufferings of the timid, lonely child in her class. Since he is obedient and studious, as a rule, not bothering her, she may give little or no thought to his non-mixing tendency. Only when a child breaks some school rule or annoys the teacher is she likely to pay much attention to him. The timid, lonely child, therefore, is the most neglected child at school, except as he may often complain to the teacher about being imposed upon by other children. Many of these timid children are, however, so ready to avoid conflicts as to submit to all sorts of humiliations rather than to complain.

There's the child who, at recess, remains at his seat, doing his lessons, or reading or day-dreaming. He may lose no opportunity to volunteer to help the teacher, doing everything he can to help her. Thereby he is made less popular than with his classmates, who think of him as "teacher's pet."

Some teachers will drive this child out of the room, wisely not allowing any child not ill to remain in the classroom at recess. This is not enough, however, for most of these timid, lonely children, for they probably will slip off alone some day. Should they try to get into the play with others, they may be teased for their awkwardness and, in hopeless anger, run to tattle to the teacher. Almost always will these timid children be quarrelsome on the playground when attempting to mix.

The wise teacher goes to the playground and sees that each child has engaged in some play at which he can achieve well enough to gain enjoyment. As in the classroom, her children on the playground are induced to do the thing at which they can succeed. This teacher also gets in touch with the parents of the timid, lonely child. Working sympathetically together, teacher and parents can do much to help such a child.

THOUGHT ON FEMININITY

I'm glad I was not woman-born. So many times this cost I've worn I'd hate to fear what friends would say.

I'm glad I do not have to care. About the kind of hat I wear. Or wonder, when I'm asked to dine, If others will have ties like mine.

I'm glad that no one can compute The years I've owned my evening suit. But gladder that nobody cares How long a man's Tuxedo wears.

It must be maddening to meet A copy-cat on every street. And see some woman, thin or fat, Appear in your exclusive hat.

Your gown on some one else to see I'm sure must downright torture be. So in my tattered, threadbare worn I'm glad I was not woman-born.

Decline all invitations to dances until you are sure of your steps. It is discouraging to attempt to dance when you do not know how.

Reader's Question Answered
Dear Miss Markel—Will you please suggest the shape of hat and the kind of glasses I should wear? I am medium height and have a round face.

ANSWER—Wear either flesh-toned shell or rimless spectacles, both of which are very smart and inconspicuous. A hat with a trim will make your glasses less prominent. Avoid hats with round shapes and lines to repeat the shape of your face and tend toward hats with slightly irregular lines. Shun turbans and off-the-face models.

SHE CAN'T DRIVE
Dear Hints and Dints: A woman of many accomplishments recently confided to a friend something out of the ordinary. When a girl she learned to drive a horse, a two-horse team, a self-blinder and a bicycle, besides driving sheep, hogs, goats, chickens and cattle. She also succeeded in driving nails straight, and today she drives an automobile to perfection.

But a dozen years ago she took unto herself a husband, and then the trouble began.

"I tried to drive him just like the other animals," she said, "but never succeeded. Husbands, I guess, are too stubborn to be driven. The only way I can make him go is to coax him, along. And I think other women will agree with me."—Bill Garlie.

Primary Battles Are Ended
Republicans Fight Democrats
Farley and Roosevelt Disagree

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 26.

The nominating primaries being out of the way, the congressional campaign now narrows down to a fight between Democrats and Republicans for senatorial, representative and gubernatorial victories in November.

National interest centers on the senators. The gubernatorial contests are local in their character. For that matter, they're distinct from the congressional conflict. Not that the Republicans don't hope to win with an additional governor here and there, or that the Democrats don't hope to keep all they've got.

Still, a governor is relatively small potatoes according to Washington reckonings. As for representatives, collectively they're as important as senators, but individually they're too numerous to keep track of. There has been a focus of the limelight upon a very few representative spots, like Congressman John O'Connor's New York district, Maury Maverick in Texas and Howard W. Smith in Virginia, but generally speaking, representatives don't signify much personally, though they do signify a lot wholesale.

Senatorial candidates, however, have their respective retail values, some of them quite considerable.

LONG WAY TO GO
For example, if Representative Candidate B defeats Representative Candidate A in some comparatively unknown district, nobody bears it of outside that particular ballad.

Illustratively, it would take, at present, a landslide of representative victories and defeats to attract an impression. Indeed, the Republicans probably will gain some Democratic representatives' seats in November. They say they'll gain 70. The Democrats deny that. Their story is that the Republicans will gain only 20 or 30.

"Pooh, pooh," remark the Democrats, "on a mere item of 20 or 30." Even should the Republicans gain their 70 seats, they'll remain in a hopeless minority.

The truth is that practical political leaders don't like excessive majorities.

Over-majorities almost always split, as "pro" and "anti" New Deal Democrats have split recently, and as Republicans used to split, when they were too majority-conscious.

My belief is that such experienced tacticians as Postmaster General James A. Farley would like to see an even split between the two parties.

But I think Farley really desires a Democratic reverse—but I do think he can see what might have its possible Democratic advantages.

I doubt that President Roosevelt agrees with him.

Well, they're different. Farley is trying to lead a party. Roosevelt is trying to lead a society and civilization. Essentially they're as far apart as Senator George W. Norris and Senator James E. Watson.

SENATE'S DIFFERENT
All this relates to the House of Representatives.

The lower congressional chamber can be diluted 20 or 30 or 70 new kinds of members—beneficially, perhaps, by Republicans.

But a Republican candidate can't be elected to a senate seat against a Democrat without widespread "repercussions." The Republicans contend that they are due to effect some of these readjustments. They can't settle anything this year—but may be, as to 1940.

Republicans not only have been in a minority for the last half dozen years. They have been in too hopeless a minority.

The Democrats wouldn't mind seeing them pick up a senatorial seat or two.

In short, the Democrats would like to see a few more Republicans.

The Democrats would like to have a trifle more opposition. They don't admit it, of course.

But there's a necessity for some opposition.

The cat that came back has nothing on a luncheon terrapin that for more than forty years has returned "home" to a farm near Fulton, Missouri. S. D. Shely first captured the creeping wanderer in 1895. He carved "S. D. S. June 1895" on his back.

In 1899 Shely and the aging creeper met again. The date was carved on the shell.

In 1921 the terrapin returned and Kemper took up the bookkeeping where Shely had left off. It responded in 1921 and again in 1933.

Upon its 1936 appearance Kemper brought the terrapin to town and gave it to Shely.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

A Case For Restraint

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.

IF, as generally agreed, the next session of Congress will be more independent of the White House than before, one form which increased independence very likely will take will be a refusal to be nearly as tolerant of Mr. Harry Hopkins, the ebullient head of the WPA. There is an increasing belief that he badly needs to be restrained.

FOR A long time resentment has been accumulating in the Senate toward this gentleman—a resentment considerably increased by his recent political activity and that of the people under him.

Some Democratic members, not at all offended by WPA support against Republicans, regard as utterly outrageous Mr. Hopkins' editorial campaign, for example, as he made in Iowa days of Mr. Hopkins' administration candidates in Democratic primaries against them. Others taking higher ground, consider the injection of politics into relief for or against anyone as equally shameful whether in the primary or the general campaign.

IN ANY event when Congress meets again its attitude toward Mr. Hopkins promises to have stiffened a good deal. The thing that up to date has kept it soft, and enabled him to distribute relief billions without restriction has been fear of Mr. Roosevelt. With this fear, diminished by the primaries and regardless of continued jobholder advocacy, with practical politicians now aware that the third-term notion is "out the window" the days of Mr. Hopkins' complete freedom from accountability seem to be numbered. Certainly, there will be an early move to trim his political wings and render him impotent to use the great organization under him as a political adjunct of the White House—a thing which his own utterances have shown him entirely willing to do.

THE initiative to take away political power from the WPA to compel its head and his aides to refrain from statements calculated to influence relief voters and create political sentiment is likely to come from the Senate committee which has been investigating primary conditions. This committee found "as an overside" the evidence of WPA participation in Kentucky and other States. It submitted the facts to Mr. Hopkins, but he had to be prodded by the committee before he acknowledged its letter and then his reply was extremely casual. Later, he made a second and more conciliatory reply but reiterated his denial.

THERE is a quite definite feeling in the Senate—and outside—that the great power Mr. Hopkins has wielded has gone to his head. The belief is widespread that it is not only inimical to the national interest and indefensible from any moral angle that the distributor of Federal relief funds should be an open partisan in politics, but that it is incredible, stupid for members of congress to give him power which can be used against themselves. His entrance into Iowa primaries against Senator Gillette, his expressed belief that relief voters will vote the Roosevelt way, the inflammatory words of his very voluble, aide, Alex Williams, the open hand with which the relief workers added Barkley in Kent say—all of these have contributed in feeling bound to find expression from Democrats when Congress meets.

HEAT HAS been added to this feeling to reports of truculent remarks which Mr. Hopkins is said to have made privately and by the boosting of him by Jones spirits of the "inner-circle" as the New Deal candidate for President in 1940. Few are naive enough to take this seriously, but that sort of advertising tends to increase Mr. Hopkins' notion of his political importance and dispose him to tell people where they "get off." Some of the comments attributed to him at Saratoga last summer on the subject of spending, taxes and elections—emphatic expression to friends and his opinion as to what the New Deal could do and intends to do—were more or less sensational. Certainly in the form they stepped back to Washington, they increased the feeling that "something has got to be done" about Mr. Hopkins. Exactly what "something" will take is uncertain, but this is sure—next year he will not be given the free hand with which he has wielded money. Together with the strings which will be attached there is also likely to be a strong Senate resolution deploring partisan utterances from heads of the WPA and insisting that they remain rigidly aloft from any form of political partisanship. Such a resolution undoubtedly would be in accord with the sentiment of the people generally.

ST. VITUS CHURCH SCENE OF Pretty Wedding Ceremony

Yesterday morning, September 25, as the bells chimed at 11 o'clock,
 two prominent Italian families were united when Miss Marietta L.
 Venturilla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
 Frank Venturilla of the New Wilmington road, became the bride of Angelo Cammarata, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Cammarata of Pittsburgh, at a beautiful ceremony in St. Vitus church.

Before a throng of friends and relatives of the young couple, the vows were exchanged, with the Rev.
 Fr. Herbert Butterbach officiating.
 He was assisted by Rev. Fr. O'Donnell of the New Castle hospital and Rev. L. A. O'Connell of the Epiphany church of Pittsburgh, deacons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her Colonial gown of white rip taffeta, with full skirt giving a hoop effect, made entrain. It had long fitted sleeves with points over the wrists and puffed at the shoulder. Her veil of tulle and real lace was entrain, with a crown of seed pearls and orange blossoms. Her only jewelry was a solid gold cross worn about her neck, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of white roses and valley lilies.

Miss Nancy Venturilla, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a peach sheer made too long, similar in design, and set off with a turquoise blue tulle and illusion veil. Her arm bouquet was in keeping with the colonial idea, made up of tea roses.

Mrs. Joseph LaFrank of Pittsburgh, sister of the groom, and a bride of one year, was matron of honor. She wore a gown patterned same as the maid of honor's, and her arm bouquet harmonized.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Harland Moody, sister of the bride, who is a bride of August 29, and Mrs.
 Alfred Cammarata, a bride of July 27 and sister-in-law of the groom. They wore gowns made alike of turquoise sheer, and flares of peach with matching veils adorned their heads. They carried Johanna Hill roses.

Master Sonny Garatana of Boston, Mass., nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. He wore a tuxedo.
 Anthony Venturilla, brother of the bride, served as best man, while ushering were Harland Moody, brother-in-law of the bride, this city, and Alfred Cammarata, brother of the groom, Pittsburgh.

The church altar was especially colorful with a solid embankment of flowers of the season, combined with ferns and palms which outlined the chancel. Lighted cathedral candles in branching candelabra completed the setting. Adding further to the impressiveness of the occasion, appropriate music was provided by the church organist, Mrs. M. Lasko, and the vested boys choir contributed several numbers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs.
 Venturilla wore a duobonnet dress with matching accompaniments, with Tailsman roses in shoulder bouquet. The groom's mother chose a Navy dress, with accessories to match, and her shoulder bouquet was also of Tailsman roses.

A congratulatory period followed in the church, and afterwards, a wedding dinner was served at the Seil social hall, places marking for 350 guests. Appointments were carried out in pink and white, and the traditional tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature figures, centered the bride table. A reception for several hundred took place in the evening.

Later, the newlyweds departed on a six weeks wedding trip to Canada,
 Niagara Falls, Boston, New York, Atlantic City, Philadelphia and many other points of interest. For traveling, the bride donned a duobonnet, ensemble with matching accessories. Her shoulder corsage harmonized.

Mrs. Cammarata was graduated from New Castle high school with the class of 1935. The groom, a

St. Vitus Church Scene Of Pretty Wedding Ceremony

graduate of Allegheny high in 1932, is associated in the restaurant business with his father in Pittsburgh.
 Upon returning, Mr. and Mrs.
 Cammarata will take up residence in their apartment located at 813 Federal street, Pittsburgh. They have received a magnificent collection of wedding gifts from their hosts of friends, which were displayed at the bride's home.

Guests were present from Swiss-vale, Pittsburgh, Wellsville, O., East
 Liverpool, O., East Palestine, O.,
 Oil City, Sharon, Farrell, Youngstown, O., Cleveland, O., Boston, Mass., New York City, Rochester,

—BUT IN NEW CASTLE—

POSTMAN BECOMES
WAITER FOR TWO
NON-STRIKERS

(International News Service)

HAMMOND, La.—It is a well-known fact that the mail has to get through, and two non-strikers at the plant of the Hammond Box Company were certainly glad of the tradition.

The two—Sam Carpenter and Joe Hutchinson—were trapped in the strike-picketed plant and afraid to come out.

Their employer learned of their plight after they had been without food for almost a day and a half.
 They were fed regularly three times a day thereafter—with one of Uncle Sam's special delivery postman acting as waiter.

The pickets made no attempt to stop the postman, so the mails—or rather the food—got through.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 26.—As the evidence before the house graft investigating committee shapes up it is primarily now a question of one man's word against another's. . . in most cases to date it is the word of former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti against those he accuses of wrongdoing.
Margiotti's most serious charges have been denied by those he accused almost as fast as they were made. . . his most sensational charges to date, that Rep. Charles Melchiorre, Philadelphia Democrat, told him $150,000 was paid during the 1935 session of the legislature for the passage of Sunday movie and beer legislation was promptly denied by Melchiorre. . . Others implicated in Margiotti's testimony issued denials also.
The denials were not politely couched. . . In fact, the dismissed attorney general was so severely criticized that he arose before the house committee and publicly stated: "I have been harassed, abused, ridiculed and criticized."
They're still waiting at the capitol to see the legislature open on time. . . the senate especially has never, to anyone's knowledge, opened on time this session. . . the ritual, however, is strictly followed when the session opens. . . although it may be a half hour or more late, Lt.-Gov. Thomas Kennedy, presiding, bangs his gavel and solemnly intones: "The hour set for the convening of the senate having arrived the senate will now be in order."

Inauguration of the Civilian Conservation Corps by the Federal Government has been of inestimable value to more than 118,000 unemployed Pennsylvania youths. Secretary of Public Assistance Arthur W.

Open Civic Theater
Season October 18
Community Group Will Present 'Fresh Fields' As First Offering

The New Castle Civic Theater Guild will open its first independent dramatic season in the auditorium of George Washington junior-senior high school on the evening of October 18 with the witty three-act comedy, "Fresh Fields."

By this move will be established a civic organization offering a wide field for various talents or serve as an outlet for hobbies. Robert W. Turner, business manager of the group declared today. For five years the group has been active, but this year a five-play season is planned.

The project, Turner said, will not alone afford new opportunities to those interested in dramatics, but will open the field for development of purely individual expression in interior decoration, scenery painting, costume design, effective illumination and technical stage mechanics.

"Let up—light up a Camel" puts more joy into living

THE DOG pictured above has a nervous system amazingly similar to yours, with this difference: It is the nature of the dog to rest when he needs rest. It is the nature of mankind to drive on...until nerves jerk and twitch...until you are cross and irritable...tired out without knowing it. No matter which of the common forms of tenseness you feel, try this experiment: Ease up and enjoy a Camel. Camels are made from costlier tobaccos. They are so mild and comforting. Smokers find that "Let up—light up a Camel" puts more zest into life, and that Camel's costlier tobaccos soothe their nerves.

DID YOU KNOW?
—that one tablespoonful of tobacco seed will sow 100 square yards? Right down to the day of harvest, Camel tobacco experts watch the development of the crop in each locality. The Camel cigarette buyers know where the mild, choice, aromatic tobacco is, and buy accordingly.
Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOES—Turkish and Domestic

Fred L. McDaniel, cowboy (right), says: "When I feel nervous I let up, and light up a soothing Camel. Camels are mild—I smoke 'em steadily. They are so comforting, and never tire my taste."

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Why autopsies? An autopsy is the postmortem examination of a body. The cause, seat or nature of a disease is thus shown. The autopsy table gives the doctor definite knowledge.

He is thus better able to treat his living patients.

Postmortems offer a wealth of teaching material to students. Throughout medical history the autopsy has contributed to our knowledge of diseases.

Relatives used to object to autopsies on members of the family. The more enlightened realize its contribution to certainty.

Following an autopsy, doubt as to cause of death is removed.

A baby, normal in appearance, dies six hours after birth, and why? The autopsy shows the infant has been born without proper intestines.

Have You Read?

A policeman's lot is a brisk one, according to a new book at the public library by Mary Sullivan, called, "My Double Life."

Mrs. Sullivan, director of police-women in New York City, is one of those rare persons whose job is a continual adventure. It has hardships and heartbreaks, highlights of excitement and lowlights of drudgery, but she keeps her enthusiasm for her choice of career.

The book is packed with incidents of a phase of New York life that only a member of the police force can know at first hand. She writes fluently and without monotony and with a broad outlook on life.

Letter To Daughter Tells Of Hurricane

Violence Of Storm Described In Letter To Miss Josephine Sroczyńska

A vivid description of the flood and hurricane catastrophe in New England is given by Mrs. Laura Sroczyńska, of Whitman, Mass., in a letter written to her daughter, Miss Josephine Sroczyńska, of the New Castle Y. W. C. A. staff.

Mrs. Sroczyńska, her daughters, Laura and Ludmila, and son, George, were one of the families fortunate in having no damage done to their house but when writing the letter last Wednesday night they were wondering if there would be a tree in the vicinity left standing.

They had just returned from a hazardous trip to Mt. Abington some miles away where the hurricane had overtaken them with little or no warning. In order to get home they had to make four or five detours, drive over lawns and over the tops of fallen trees. The hurricane left them without electricity in their home and the letter was being written under a kerosene lamp. Their radio was silent, of course, all communication was cut off and they had no idea of how extensive the damage was. Not being near a river they suffered no flood damage.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Taking Latin bravura for what it is, jai alai is the one game which suitably matches that Chilean canine temperament. It is pronounced "hi li" and if a ball hits you on the head, you are pronounced dead. Mike Jacobs, et al., bringing the game to the hippodrome are dealing this old town the hottest dish of paprika it has sampled in a long time.

It is all pro—no game for amateurs or mere triflers of any kind; a career game in fact, and like career diplomacy, confined to a few insiders. It is of Basque origin, but Havana whence it comes to New York, is now its world capital. It was taken to Chicago in 1929, but it made the town so gambling crazy the district attorney had to stop it. It is an elderly bishop wandered into the hippodrome, thinking it a Chautauque, he would break his arm, trying to get a bet down.

It is magnified and murderous squash rackets, played on a concrete court 210 by 36 feet, the target at each end being a 36 foot square of concrete with the small, hard rubber ball shot the length of the court from the player's racket or cesta. The cesta made of closely woven bamboo and strapped to the player's wrist, is from two to three feet long and shaped like a Chinese finger nail. In it they catch the ball and with the forearm radius they get a swing which delivers the ball at almost bullet speed. The serve and return builds up a bewildering flash of action which, in the view of this observer, made the Davis cup matches look a run-together of Helen Hokison's club ladies. The game is thirty points, victory going to the side which first makes the score.

Members of Cuban teams previously brought to Miami and Chicago were paid $250 to $200 a month each with all living expenses. In the room of each player was a little shelf on which was enshrined the player's personal saint. Each player always wears around his neck a small gold likeness of his saint held by a gold chain. If this chain breaks, there is outer covering of goatskin both replaced.

The great Eplano of Havana, is the Stradivarius of Jai Alai balls similarly esteemed in Cuba. His son virtually born on a Jai Alai court and strapped to a cesta at the age of six became the Babe Ruth of Jai Alai.

Goatskin and kidskin is as revelatory of the Spanish temperament as the sun and shade of the bull-ring. Spain is a country of sharp black and white. You are friend or foe; exquisite kidskin courtesy and generosity if they like you and goatskin hostility if they don't. In sun-baked Spain opinions, love and hatred are not shaded and softened as in the foggy countries of the North. None of Sweden's "middle way" there, and certainly there is none in Jai Alai.

General Wood allowed the importation of the game in Cuba. Subsequent gambling frenzy brought him much criticism, but there was such tremendous popular enthusiasm that nothing short of a civil war could have stopped it.

Convention Of Colored People Closes Sunday

O. B. Cobb Of Pittsburgh Chosen President; Large Crowd Attends

1939 CONVENTION IN PHILADELPHIA

For the Sunday afternoon session of the annual week-end convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Second Baptist church of New Castle was packed to capacity.

William Fickens, of the National Office of the N. A. A. C. P. in New York City, was the main speaker of the afternoon. He gave a most interesting and enlightening address on European conditions today, having just returned from several months on the continent.

The Hon. Homer Brown, of Pittsburgh, member of the Pennsylvania Legislature, also addressed the conference. The meeting proved a most successful conclusion to the convention.

Elected Officers
Succeeding Dr. James A. Gillespie of New Castle, who has been president for the past four years, O. B. Cobb of Media, Pa., was chosen state leader at a meeting Sunday forenoon in the Central Y. W. C. A. Rev. H. Tolliver of Pittsburgh was elected vice president; Grant Freeman of Media, recording secretary; Dr. Gillespie of New Castle, treasurer; Mrs. Blanche Dillard of New Castle, Dr. H. G. Green of Philadelphia, Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Grace Kennedy of Pittsburgh, executive committee.

It was decided to meet next year on the last Saturday and Sunday of September, in Philadelphia.

The convention music was led by St. Paul's Baptist choir of this city. An instrumental solo was given by Alice Gillespie and vocal solos by Mrs. Arthur Payne and Mrs. Anna Campbell.

Saturday Program
On Saturday Rev. Harold G. Tolliver of Pittsburgh gave an address in the church. Remarks were made by J. A. Divine of New Castle, Dr. Green of Philadelphia, Attorney Clarence Patterson, Mrs. William Howley and Mayor Charles E. McGrath of New Castle.

Saturday night there was a banquet in the Elm Street Y. W. C. A. Toastmaster Horace Bradley, president of the New Castle N. A. A. C. P., introduced various out-of-town delegates who offered remarks. Editor Pratts of the Pittsburgh Courier, was the main speaker at the banquet.

FORECAST HITLER WILL STAND FIRM ON HIS DEMANDS

Instructions from Washington, he asked for the opportunity to discuss the entire European situation.

He considers the speech he is to deliver tonight during a "historic manifestation" at the Berlin sports-palace will comprise an effective answer to threats and appeals alike. There appeared to be no doubt he would present an unflinching, uncompromising front, demanding immediate acceptance by Prague of Nazi Germany's final ultimatum.

Rushing to the Wilhelmstrasse to make an appointment for Sir Horace Wilson of the British foreign office, who is flying here from London with Chamberlain's message, British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson found the stage carefully set for his arrival.

Already at the chancellery or arriving in his wake were Hitler's highest military aides—the men who will issue the orders to Germany's armies in the field if hostilities occur.

They included General Wilhelm Keitel, army chief of staff; Admiral General Erich Raeder, commander-in-chief of the battle fleet; Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering and all the other bemedalled officers destined to fill the shoes of Hindenburg and Ludendorff if Germany once again is pitted against the world in what President Roosevelt described as the "madness" of war.

Brings Counter-Argument

Sir Horace is bringing with him not only Chamberlain's message but what Berlin termed a "demonstrative counter-argument" from Prague. In reply to questions concerning the new British mission and Germany's reaction to President Roosevelt's appeal, a spokesman had this to say:

"Official comment is being withheld. The fuhrer's speech tonight will answer all questions."

This correspondent pointed out, however, that Mr. Roosevelt's message centered on a plea that negotiations be permitted to continue as the only guarantee against outbreak of hostilities. A source close to the chancellery then authorized International News Service to present the following as an authoritative exposition of Germany's immovable attitude:

"The memorandum (Hitler's final terms demanding German occupation of all the Sudeten areas by October 1) stands. It covers everything."

Deny Charges Made
"Its principles were agreed upon by England, France and Germany, and consented to by Prague."

"Allegations that the fuhrer altered his territorial demands in his last meeting with Mr. Chamberlain at Godesberg are untrue."

"The chief agreement was that the Sudeten territory be returned to the Reich. The whole of the arrangement was based solely on President Wilson's 14 points, which embrace self-determination and plebiscites for those districts in doubt."

Unless last minute changes occur, it may safely be assumed that Hitler's address at the sports-palace will reiterate this German contention, embellished and adorned with the historic and oratory of which the fuhrer is capable and aggravated to an unpredictable degree by Hitler's mounting anger over a radio broadcast from Prague asserting that Britain and France had condoned Czechoslovakia's mobilization.

Ordered To Listen
Meanwhile, the Nazi organization swung into high gear to assure that everyone of Germany's seventy-five millions hear what Hitler has to say at the sports-palace tonight. The speech will be broadcast throughout the country. All persons with radios have been instructed to listen and those who do not were told to turn out in front of street loudspeakers and beer-hall and restaurant sets to hear the fuhrer chart their immediate future—and that of the rest of the world.

Grand President Of P. H. C. Going To Testimonial

Mrs. Belle Kennedy Will Attend Event In Pittsburgh Tuesday Night

On Tuesday evening Miss Lord and Mrs. Kennedy will go to Pittsburgh to attend a gathering of grand officers in honor of Albert J. Callahan, grand chieftess.

CZEC HS AWAIT BERLIN'S NEXT MOVE IN CRISIS

negotiations, and it is strongly hoped here that President Roosevelt's and Premier Chamberlain's appeals to Hitler may make fresh talks possible.

Another cabinet meeting probably will be held later in the day. Orderly mobilization continued today, and trains for military camps moved out at frequent intervals.

By day, Prague was a grim city of military activity, and by night an invisible complete black-out, for the Czechs believe that when Hitler strikes, it will be first by air.

May Not Wait Until October

Even though the expiration of Hitler's ultimatum is fixed for this Saturday, it was believed here that if the fuhrer is convinced the answer is a flat "No," he will not wait until Oct. 1.

A knock-out attack terrible enough to decide the war almost at once is probable, in the belief of Czech military authorities.

Prague has so far gone the limit in making preparations to minimize the effect of such a blow. One tiny blue lamp was all that was allowed me in my hotel room last night, and the curtains had to be drawn, the same as in every other room in the city. By night this city looks like a great village sleeping under the stars, without a soul stirring.

But behind their shutters Prague's million inhabitants are anxiously speculating whether Hitler would risk the anger of all mankind by really saying Hitler's first mass bombardment of a great city to terrorize its population into surrendering.

No Basis For Judgment
Madrid, where only 1,000 persons have been killed in two years of air raids, offers no basis for judgment on what might happen to Prague.

It is realized that nowhere in the world have the numbers of airplanes been used which Germany could send over Prague in a few hours.

Without unduly weakening her air force, it is estimated that Germany could hurl 300 giant bombers of death at this city. The highest number ever observed at one time over Barcelona or Madrid was 80.

Virtually the entire adult population of Prague has been mobilized under a new decree. Workmen and business and professional men and women may be sent anywhere and made to do anything the government deems necessary. All were required to register.

A score of Americans who, with hundreds of others attempted to take the last train through Germany yesterday were turned back at Eger. The German national railways refused to carry the train any further.

LETTER CARRIERS, CLERKS, MEET HERE IN CONVENTION

wishes and felicitations were received by the local auxiliary from Mrs. Merrill Ayling of Philadelphia, state vice president; Mrs. Marion Gryswinski, state ladies auxiliary organizer; Miss Helen Judd, Camp Hill; state secretary; and Mrs. Millie Penfield, Pittsburgh, delegate at large. These were read by District Secretary, Mrs. D. E. Kelly, of Oil City, and Mrs. Carol Forrest, local president. A vote of thanks was given in appreciation of these good wishes. Mrs. Wilma I. Miller, read one of her original poems, "Our Mailman," a beautiful compliment to the letter carriers.

The group adjourned, believing that they had concluded another successful district meeting.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the National Federation of Post Office Clerks of the Northwest Pennsylvania District was organized at the meeting in New Castle.

Mrs. Glen D. Rowe, national vice president, and Mrs. Frank Babylon, state president, assisted in the organization.

Officers elected for the district were: President, Mrs. Charles Cushman, Sharon; vice president, Mrs. Carolyn Meely, Erie; secretary, Mrs. Harold Bullock, Oil City; treasurer, Mrs. Wallace Coughlan, Oil City.

Banquet Event

It was about 6:45 when over two hundred of the convention assembly were seated at the banquet, table with General Chairman Kenneth Lutz, in charge. There had been a registration of 170. One verse of "America" was sung by all, led by Prof. Allan Davis, of Westminster college, followed by the invocation given by James G. Leslie, local assistant postmaster.

Instrumental and vocal music was furnished during the evening by the Smith-Williams Hawaiian orchestra. A group singing was led by Prof. Davis. Richard A. Steen, local postmaster, officiated as toastmaster in a jovial, effusive manner. Appropriate addresses of welcome were delivered by Judge Thomas W. Dickey and Mayor Charles E. McGrath on behalf of the county and city. Responses were made by Sam Polm, vice president of N. W. District Letter Carriers, and Wallace Coughlan, President Pennsylvania N. D. District Post Office Clerks.

Congressman Charles R. Ebert stated in his address that he believed in rigid civil service by merit, from the highest postal official down to the rank and file, also in favor of a liberal retirement benefit.

D. F. Murray, chairman executive board N. A. L. C., made a stirring address, pointing out the fraternal idea of the N. A. L. C. as a beneficial and business organization. He enumerated several benefits secured in improved conditions for postal employees, also felt that the postmaster general and his department are in sympathy with the postal employees. The N. A. L. C. wants every man to do an honest day's work, be fair to the public, and fair to themselves, he said.

Mrs. Beatrice Burroughs, national vice president Ladies Auxiliary N. A. L. C., stated that they had 21,050 members, and were cooperating with the N. A. L. C. and asking for 200 more auxiliaries within a year. Also that every wife is responsible for a contented employee.

that her husband should be well fed and clothed, and sent out in the morning with smiles.

At the luncheon Mrs. Gertrude Butler, state president Ladies Auxiliary N. A. L. C., was presented.

Splendid Address

William L. Horner, legislative representative and editor of "Union Postal Clerk," made a splendid address, saying that legislators should him all courtesy and that it will continue. Cooperation must also be had in the rank and file in the service. He was putting forth his best efforts for the enactment of a liberalized retirement law, and a widow's annuity, also legislation for the benefit of substitute postal workers. Civil service protected postal employees, from the political bosses. There were many good postmasters. He hoped soon, that the selection of postmaster will be according to merit and service.

There are 45,000 postal clerk members. Being his first visit to Pennsylvania, (living in Tennessee), he appreciated the hospitality shown to him.

Mrs. Glen D. Rowe, vice president of Women's Auxiliary of National Federation of Post Office Clerks, said that she liked the idea of both organizations getting together in this manner. "We as women, must admit we should be interested, and the auxiliary should have a place in the mind of the wives of every postal employee. Men are realizing the need of auxiliaries, and are helping in the organization of them."

A letter was read from Hon. James A. Fawley, postmaster general, stating that he regretted his inability to be present, owing to a previous engagement.

Frank E. Leister, state chairman of executive board of N. A. L. C., gave a detailed report of the state convention at Altoona, September 3 to 6.

Mrs. Frank Babylon, state president of Ladies Auxiliary of National Federation of Post Office Clerks, was presented.

The toastmaster read a letter from Judge Walter Braham, that he was unable to attend, and extending his congratulations.

James Langston, state president of N. A. L. C., gave a forceful address, stating he was glad of the cooperation of carriers and clerks. He congratulated the local committee for their splendid convention arrangements, also that postmasters and supervisors should be invited to these meetings. He said that the fact that technological improvements are causing many thousands of men to be thrown out of employment every year, should be more thoroughly realized, and taken care of. Local attendance at local meetings should be urged. Also advised of the benefits of mutual benefit insurance.

General Chairman Kenneth Lutz thanked all who had in any way contributed toward the success of the convention, and the meeting was adjourned.

FLOOD STRICKEN ZONES TO GET AID FROM U. S. FUNDS

"Every possible force must and will be brought into service immediately. There are sufficient funds to meet this emergency. We will do whatever needs to be done. Already we have put more than 100,000 W.P.A. men to work in New England in connection with this crisis."

Workers Make Progress
Meanwhile, the task of clearing debris, searching for bodies, making emergency repairs to telephone and restoring highway and service was pushed over the week-end. Sunny weather and absence of eight-sevens barred from the flooded area of western Massachusetts and hurricane-ravaged Rhode Island—permitted the thousands of workers to make good progress.

Providence banks which were under water or threatened by the flood, removed $31,000,000 in coin and currency from their vaults. Under cover of darkness, and with state and federal police of Rhode Island and Massachusetts providing a heavy escort, seven armored trucks brought the money to Boston for storage at the Federal Reserve bank.

Looting Arrests
At Westerly, R. I., one of the hardest hit sections of that state, five W.P.A. workers were arrested on charges of looting. Looting on a large scale was attempted by pirate parties landing from boats at Watch Hill, police reported. Constables had been hiding in wait but betrayed their presence by flash lights and the would-be looters fled. National guardsmen moved into the Cape Code area of Massachusetts with orders to "shoot to kill" to prevent looting.

The Cape area from Hyannis to Provincetown was not affected by the hurricane and tidal wave. The devastated Cape area centered in Falmouth, Woods Hole, Wareham, Onset and Buzzards Bay.

New England's rail service improved greatly over the week-end. The Boston and Maine opened service north as far as Concord, N. H. The New York, New Haven & Hartford opened its Springfield-Hartford line yesterday.

Danger of food and water shortage, and threat of disease, passed with the arrival of food, clothing and medical supplies in stricken areas.

Rivers were returning to normal and danger of further damage was lessened.

PRESIDENT MAKES APPEAL FOR PEACE IN CZECH CRISIS

ask these two heads of state not to go to war, but to resolve their differences through negotiations.

Sends Urgent Appeal
The president sliced through diplomatic formality and red tape and, man-to-man, sent this urgent appeal to Hitler and Benez:

"On behalf of the 130 millions of people of the United States of America and for the sake of humanity everywhere I most earnestly appeal to you not to break off negotiations looking to a peaceful, fair, and constructive settlement of the questions at issue."

"So long as these negotiations continue so long will there remain the hope that reason and the spirit of equity may prevail and that the world may thereby escape the madness of a new resort to war."

"I earnestly repeat that so long as negotiations continue, differences may be reconciled. Once they are broken off reason is banished and force asserts itself."

"And force produces no solution for the future good of humanity."

The president placed his flourish signature on the peace message at 12:15 a. m. in the presence of Secretary of State Hull and undersecretary of State Welles.

Cabled Direct
It was instantly cabled direct to Chancellor Hitler and President Benez. All wires were cleared between the White House and Berlin and Prague for the urgent plea to go through.

Simultaneously, secretary Hull sped the historic message to Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain and Premier Daladier of France, who for two weeks had sought heroically but apparently vainly, to reconcile Germany's insistence that Czechoslovakia submit to partition and the Prague government's rock-like refusal to yield.

It was thus, and only thus, the president said, that perhaps the peace of Europe might be saved.

The president's momentous decision to act was made at a moment when it appeared inevitable that another general war, far more horrible, far more destructive to combatant women and children as well as men under arms alike, might break out at any instant.

Sentiment For Peace
In it, he swung the full weight of American public opinion for peace, taking no side in the European controversy he seeks to see settled without war.

But he included a reminder that no nation, the United States or any other, can escape the effects of a general war.

"The supreme desire of the American people is to live in peace," Mr. Roosevelt informed Hitler and Benez, Chamberlain and Daladier. "But," he emphasized, "in the event of a general war they face the fact that no nation can escape some measure of the consequences of such a world catastrophe."

He called upon Germany and Czechoslovakia to remember they signed a solemn compact with most all other nations in 1933—the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact—not to take up arms but to settle differences through peaceful discussion.

In effect, he invoked this pact and asked that the two countries settle their differences by arbitration as provided under the pact, should the efforts of Prime Minister Chamberlain not avail. He stated:

"The traditional policy of the United States has been the furtherance of the settlement of international disputes by pacific means."

"It is my conviction that all people under the threat of war today pray that peace may be made before, rather than after, war."

Recalls Vows
"It is imperative that peoples everywhere recall that every civilized nation of the world voluntarily assumed the solemn obligations of the Kellogg-Briand pact of 1928 to solve controversies only by pacific methods."

"In addition, most nations are parties to other binding treaties obligating them to preserve peace."

"Furthermore, all countries have today available for such peaceful solution of difficulties which may arise, treaties of arbitration and conciliation to which they are parties."

Perforce, Mr. Roosevelt pleaded that reason and not force be used. "Whatever may be the differences in the controversies at issue," the president urged, "and however difficult of pacific settlement they may be, I am persuaded that there is no problem so difficult or so pressing for solution that it cannot be justly solved by the resort to reason rather than by the resort to force."

Unspcakable Horror
The president began his message to Hitler and Benez by declaring that the peace of Europe is in "immediate danger" and that war would bring death to millions "under circumstances of unspeakable horror."

"The fabric of peace on the continent of Europe, if not throughout the rest of the world, is in immediate danger," he declared.

"The consequences of its rupture are incalculable."

"Should hostilities break out the lives of millions of men, women and children in every country involved will most certainly be lost under circumstances of unspeakable horror."

"The economic system of every country involved is certain to be shattered. The social structure of every country involved may well be completely wrecked."

In what was interpreted as a statement of present neutrality, the president's message continued:

"The United States has no political entanglements. It is caught in no mesh of hatred. Elements of all Europe have formed its civilization. The supreme desire of the American people is to live in peace."

He pointedly reminded, however, that a war in Europe cannot take place without affecting this country. He continued:

No Nation Can Escape
"But in the event of a general war they face the fact that no nation can escape some measure of the consequences of such a world catastrophe."

The president's sudden and dramatic attempt to halt the outbreak

Tells Of Stay In American Samoa

New Castle Man Here On Visit After 19 Months Stay On Islands

IS CHAPLAIN IN UNITED STATES NAVY

Back in the United States after 19 months service in American Samoa, Chaplain G. L. Markle of the United States navy, is visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Plansburg, of Franklin avenue. Chaplain Markle is a New Castle man who has served the navy as a chaplain for the past 12 years.

He holds the rank of lieutenant, senior grade, but has been recommended for the grade of lieutenant-commander and will doubtless receive this in a short time.

From the description of American Samoa, the islands must be a veritable earthly Paradise. Located 12 degrees below the equator and about 4,600 miles west of the Pacific coast, the climate is warm the year round. American Samoa consists of five small islands in the Pacific, and the breeze from the Pacific fans the islands from all sides.

Good People
"The Samoans are good people," said Chaplain Markle. "They are intelligent, courteous and of universally happy disposition. They learn fast and are anxious to obtain good educations. They attend the schools which our government has established there, and service in American Samoa was a delight."

The United States does not own the islands known as American Samoa. Neither do we have a mandate or protectorate over it. Back in 1880 there was a disagreement between Britain and Germany over the islands and the Samoans asked the United States to protect their interests. The spot was a natural landing station for U. S. naval vessels and the United States agreed. Today there is only one coal burning vessel in the U. S. navy and this is the U. S. S. Ontario, which is stationed in the waters of American Samoa. However, there is a splendid possibility of landing facilities for trans-Pacific planes on the islands and the United States continues its big brother care for the Samoans.

The U. S. navy is the law of the islands. Chaplain Markle was designated director of the island schools while he served there, in addition to his duties as chaplain.

Brings Back Souvenirs
In the Plansburg home today there is a collection of Samoan handicraft which is unusual. A model of a Samoan canoe fitted with an outrigger, many, many pieces of slat, which is Samoan cloth made from the bark of mulberry trees. The cloth is covered with gaily colored designs and is used for many purposes.

Other souvenirs include sponge coral, shell beads and an unusual bowl with a dozen legs all from one piece of hardwood. The bowl is a ceremonial bowl in Samoa, but seems to be the thing for an American salad.

Chaplain and Mrs. Markle will remain in New Castle for a few days, after which they will go to Cedarville, O. Mrs. Markle's former home.

Chaplain Markle took his college work in Cedarville, then went to Princeton Theological seminary. In February, 1926, he was ordained in New Castle as a Presbyterian minister and for a few months preached in Gettysburg and Fletcher, O. He was then assigned as a chaplain in the United States navy. Since then he has served at Newport, R. I., aboard the destroyer tender Dobbin, with the marines in Haiti, at New London, Conn., and on the west coast.

His next service will be shore duty with the air forces at San Diego, Calif.

Wertz And Kowalik Meet Here Tonight In Return Battle

Fans Expect To See Sensational Scrap When 'Welters' Scrap

SEVEN OTHER GOOD BOUTS ON CALENDAR

COMING BOUTS
Halbert Brooks, New Castle, vs. George Tarr, Youngstown; 145 pounds.
Lou Danko, Youngstown, vs. Chuck Arlett, New Castle; 140 pounds.
Mike Sandino, Youngstown, vs. Muddy Kurtz, McKees Rocks; 145 pounds.
Jimmie Daitley, Youngstown, vs. Sully Tanti, Midland; 135 pounds.
Mickie Rubin, New Castle, vs. George Segerman, Youngstown; 175 pounds.
Jack Virgelli, Butler, vs. Steve Morgan, Youngstown; 160 pounds.
Regis O'Brien, McKees Rocks, vs. George Rittenour, Youngstown; 133 pounds.
Steve Kowalik, McKees Rocks, vs. Andy Wertz, Youngstown; 145 pounds.

Having witnessed a vicious, two-fisted slugfest match when Steve Kowalik of McKees Rocks and Andy Wertz of Youngstown, welterweights, met here recently, fans will journey to The Arena tonight to see the sluggers in a return match. They are scheduled to weigh in at 145 pounds one hour before the fight. It will be the last of eight bouts, the first of which will start at 8:30 p. m.

When they clashed in their first scrap Kowalik floored Wertz with a right in the first round. Instead of staying down and taking a count, to which he was entitled, Wertz arose, fought back and finished on the short end of the first round. In the second round Wertz's comeback surprised fans and he was accredited with having captured the second round. They slugged toe-to-toe in the third round. However, Kowalik forced him to step back and at the end of the last chapter Kowalik was given the decision.

Another fight on tonight's calendar may see Chuck Arlett of West Pittsburg, either going up the flint ladder of standing where he now is. He is scheduled to box Lou Danko of Youngstown, a rugged 140-pounder. If Chuck wins he hopes to meet Harold Blank.

Midweight Bout
Jack Virgelli of Butler, who is reputedly one of the best hookers in amateur ranks, will oppose Steve Morgan of Youngstown, who has fought here several times, his latest fight having resulted in his knocking out Mike Harven. Virgelli is tough, hits hard and is smart.

Mickie Rubin of this city, a tough, rugged light-heavyweight, who sometimes abandons his teachings and fights wildly, has been matched with George Segerman of Youngstown. Segerman has not fought here previously. Rubin has won two of his last bouts in this city.

Regis O'Brien, a favorite 133-pounder from McKees Rocks, will appear here for the third time. He defeated the tough Nick Retardo and veteran Earl Donaldson. His opponent tonight will be George Rittenour of Youngstown, who took Paul Schwartz's place because the latter is too heavy.

"Ropehead" Muddy Kurtz of McKees Rocks hopes to unfurl a basket of tricks when he takes on Mike Sandino of Youngstown, who will be saving Hello with gloves for his first time here. Kurtz, a welterweight, has a style that has baffled several of his opponents.

May Provide Slugging Bee
Sully Tanti of Midland is keyed up over his coming bout with Jimmie Daitley. They weigh 155 pounds. Ross Pansy, his trainer, reports he is in the pink of condition. He won the Perelman watch the last time he fought. Daitley is rugged, and a good fight looks.

Halbert Brooks, a colored lad of this city, will make his pugilistic debut with George Tarr of Youngstown, as his opponent. Brooks has been training for weeks. He is inexperienced and Tarr is a beginner, which augurs well for a lot of punches.

The doors to The Arena will open at 7 p. m. The ring has been pitched in the center of the floor. It is surrounded by a thousand of more comfortable seats. The illumination effects are splendid. In fact it is an ideal place in which to hold not only boxing but other sports events.

It was reported today that Dr. W. D. McClelland, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic commission, may be present tonight to witness the bouts sanctioned by that body and also the amateur athletic association. The officials will be named shortly before the first bell at 8:30 p. m.

Bessemer Wins From Ellwood In Title Series
Defeat Shelby Socials 9 To 2 At Ellwood Saturday, 4 To 3 Sunday At Bessemer

PUROMAKI DRIVES IN WINNING TALLY
Bessemer baseball team, champion of Lawrence county, won new laurels on Saturday and Sunday by taking over the Ellwood City Shelby Socials 9 to 2 at Ellwood City and 4 to 3 in 12 innings at Bessemer on Sunday to annex the Beaver county league title. Snyder did the pitching for Bessemer in the final tilt and turned in a swell job. W. Puromaki drove in the winning run in the 12th with a single. A crowd of over 3,000 fans witnessed the game, the biggest crowd of the year at the Bessemer field.

Win At Ellwood.
Bessemer really got the series edge on Saturday afternoon at the Ellwood Park field in Ellwood City, where Hardesty outpitched "Lefty" Miller to get a 9 to 2 verdict. Ellwood had 11 hits off of Hardesty, but he kept them scattered. The Bessemerians had 15 hits off of Miller. Miller whiffed seven men and the Cannon Tower heater fanned two.

Greco did the heaviest hitting in the game, with a single, double and triple. W. Stanley and Gorczak also hit the ball hard. Bessemer won the game in two big innings, the first, when they got three runs, and the eighth, when they showed over three more runs. Two runs in the second inning was all that the Ellwoods could get.

Battle Goes 12 Innings.
The Sunday game at Bessemer was a humdinger from the very start until W. Puromaki slammed out that championship single in the final half of the 12th with only one out.

Snyder had the heaving job for the Bessemerians and although he was touched for 11 hits kept them scattered. He fanned 13 of the Shelby Socials. The Ellwood hurler was Komara and he held the Bessemerians to eight hits in the 12th, but fanned only one batter, and two errors by Bogosny at third for the Socials didn't help much.

Jim Martin's boys jumped out in front yesterday in the first inning with a two-run attack. Ellwood got one in the first inning and it was 2 to 1 until the start of the fifth when the Ellwoods got another run to tie the game up, but Bessemer came back with one in their half of the fifth to take the lead 3 to 2. Another Shelby Social run in the first of the seventh tied the old game up and Bessemer couldn't get that winning tally until the 12th heat.

In the last of the 12th Vlah fled out, the first man up; George Stanley walked. W. Stanley walked and W. Puromaki singled over second to send G. Stanley scampering over the platter with the winning tally and the title in the series.

Manager Jim Martin and his Bessemer boys were cheered long and loud by the fans for their courageous fight and championship.

Former national open champion Billy Burke of Cleveland with a 36-hole total of 139 posted the field in the $13,500 golf tournament being staged at the Fenway Club in White Plains, N. Y. Eighty-three players remain in the 108-hole tourney.

Homewood Beau Brummel, ace pointer dog from the Kurry kennels of Waynesboro, captured the two major bird dog trial events Sunday at Sewickley. Beau Brummel won the open all-age event and then won the shooting dog stake over a field of 26 competitors. Big O'Honey, a pointer, owned by Mrs. L. A. Park of Sewickley, finished second in the all-age event and finished third in the shooting dog stake.

Billy Burke of Cleveland led the contestants in the Westchester, White Plains, 108-hole marathon as they passed the 36-hole mark en route to first prize of $5,000, yesterday. He toured the Fenway golf course in 70 blows, par for the course and a total of 130. Dick Mick turned in a 79 yesterday for a total of 146.

Have Won Two
New Castle holds two wins so far this year, having topped Butler high 19 to 0, and Youngstown East 8 to 7. Beaver Falls lost to Monaca last Saturday, 13 to 6, and the Saturday before last the Tigers won 32 to 9 over Mars high.

Regardless of what either team has done this year, there will be a great battle Friday night. The teams are natural rivals. A New Castle-Beaver Falls game, whether in golf, basketball or football, always produces a real classic.

The crowds for the first two games have been very gratifying to the high school officials. Over 16,000 fans have witnessed the two games to date. Another big crowd is looked for this week. Beaver Falls will send over 3,000 to Taggart stadium for the night battle.

It was a battle between two fine golfers, between whom there is not a great deal of difference. At the end of the first 18 holes, which were played a week ago, the two boys were tied and had equal scores at 72. They might play each other all summer long and be even at the end of that time, all things being equal.

For Willie, we might state that illness has prevented him from playing much golf during the past few weeks, but this does not in any way detract from Emil's victory. It was a good match and hard-fought.

In the second flight William C. Twaddle defeated Jack Schneider for honors. Twaddle was two up at the end of the 18-hole round played last week, and yesterday he held this advantage throughout the match, winning 5 and 4. They had identical scores for each 18 holes, shooting 80-80 for 160, while Schneider had 82-82 for 164.

New Sports Program Is Started At Pitt

(Special To The News)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 26.—"Fewer in the grandstand" is the slogan of the new sports program which started this week at the University of Pittsburgh. The new program, calling for 23 intra-mural sports activities, replaces the former physical education requirement for men students.

James Potts, assistant track coach, has been appointed director of the new program which is administered by the department of athletics. Mr. Potts has already organized teams in touch football, speed ball, soccer, horseshoes, tennis, handball, swimming and croquet.

Winter sports will include basketball, volleyball, badminton, handball, table tennis, bowling, free throw and gymnastics. Sports for the spring season will include baseball, tennis, golf, handball, horseshoes, swimming and track and field events.

Group championships will be determined at the end of the year for the fraternity, club or class teams in the various sports. A point system will be used to decide the winner. Points are given for entering a team and playing through an entire schedule in any one of the sports, for division championship and runner-up posts, for every game played in elimination series, and for team championships. If two or more teams tie for a championship, the team with the higher academic average will be named champion.

Headquarters for the new intra-mural program is the Trees gymnasium. Outdoor sports are conducted on the Trees field and indoor contests in the Trees gym.

Pennant At Stake In Crucial Week For Pirates-Cubs

Pittsburgh Opens Three-

PIRATES CLING TO SLIM LEAD

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports
Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The New York Giants finally and definitely have been short of the National League championship which they held for two years. The Cincinnati Reds likewise are doomed to finish among the also rans, so the pennant race today settled into strictly a two-club sprint through the last week of the season—Pittsburgh Pirates vs. Chicago Cubs.

Although the campaign will not end until next Sunday, the winner may be established any time within the next few days, for the Pirates, clinging desperately to a two-game lead—will carry the fight with the Cubs right into Wrigley Field for three games beginning tomorrow.

Lead Remains Same
Both the Pirates and the Cubs won their games yesterday, and the former not only maintained their lead in the standings, but simultaneously knocked the Reds out of the race by beating them, 5 to 3. The Cubs downed the St. Louis Cardinals, 7 to 2, while the Boston Bees entered into the spirit of the thing and eliminated the Giants with a double win, 3 to 2 and 4 to 3.

With that the Giants and Reds saw their remotest mathematical chance of a top-spot finish wiped away and, at the same time, the obstacle facing the Cubs became a tougher hurdle for them.

Important Week
Here is the program for the leaders through the rest of the season.

Today—Pirates idle; Cubs vs. Cardinals at Chicago; tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday—Pirates vs. Cubs at Chicago; Friday, Saturday and Sunday—Pirates vs. Reds at Cincinnati (with a doubleheader billed for Friday, and Cubs vs. Cardinals at St. Louis).

The Cubs' victory yesterday was won by Clay Bryant, 7 to 2. The Philadelphia Dodgers beat the Philadelphia Phils by 5 to 1, then dropped the second game by the same score.

Yanks Defeated
In the American League the New York Yankees lost to the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 3 in 10 innings. In other hits in that circuit, the Philadelphia Athletics trimmed Washington, 6 to 5 in 10 innings, and lost by 5 to 4 in seven; the Detroit Tigers halted Cleveland, 7 to 5, and the St. Louis Browns beat the Chicago White Sox twice, 7 to 2 and 8 to 4.

Four Pilots Tab Yanks No. 1 Team

Present Crop Of Murderers
Row Ranked As All-Time
No. 1 Aggregation

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports
Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Winners of the American League pennant for the third straight time and now ominously coasting toward the opening of the world series on Oct. 5, the New York Yankees of 1938 stand as the greatest team in the history of baseball, according to four managers in the circuit.

Managers Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees, and Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics, who started it all by branding the current Yanks as the all-time No. 1 team, are joined in that opinion by Gabby Street and Del Baker, respective pilots of the St. Louis Browns and the Detroit Tigers, an International News Service poll reveals today.

But Jimmy Dykes, who does the best he can with the Chicago White Sox, and Oscar Vitt, similarly afflicted with the Cleveland Indians, disagree. Buckey Harris, of the Washington Senators, wouldn't go farther than to say that the current Yanks "are the best of the present crop," and Joe Cronin, of the Boston Red Sox, wouldn't even go that far. He curtly and promptly dismissed the whole thing by refusing to comment.

Gabby Street, Browns—thought the Cardinals team of 1931, which I managed and which beat the Athletics in the world series, was a great club, but I think now that the Yankees of today are the greatest I've ever seen."

Del Baker, Tigers—"The Yankees of 1938 are the best in the history of baseball. They are better balanced than some previous teams, and they've got the pitching. Joe Gordon has made the club."

Jimmy Dykes, White Sox—"The 1938 Yankees are a swell bunch of ball players. But, man for man, I'll vote for the 1926 and 1927 Yankee teams."

Oscar Vitt, Indians—"The Yankees have speed, power, a great double play combination—they have just about everything. But I don't think they are the greatest in history. Some of those New York club back in Babe Ruth's time were pretty fair."

Bucky Harris, Senators—"The Yanks are a very good team, but I don't think there is any way to determine the greatest. I can say they are the best of the present crop."

Joe Cronin, of the Red Sox, then concludes the discussion safely, safely and without getting into it with this rejoinder:

"I don't want to say anything about that."

STOCKS

War Fears Have Market Effect

Price Trends Are Downward As Fears Of War Are Heightened

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The stock market tumbled 1 to 4 points today as week-end developments heightened the fears of war abroad.

Some support developed after the early selling had been absorbed, reflecting hopes that President Roosevelt's appeal and the special mission of Sir Horace Wilson to Hitler might avert the threatened catastrophe. However, the firmness was succeeded by renewed selling toward mid-day when early losses were extended.

A number of active high-priced stocks tumbled 3 to 4 points. These included Chrysler, Eastman Kodak, Westinghouse, Philip Morris, Allied Chemical, Johns Manville, U. S. Gypsum and U. S. Smelting.

There was little to choose in leadership on the decline except that the blue chips were inclined to be the hardest hit in view of their thin markets.

Bethlehem and U. S. Steel led their group down with declines running to nearly 3 points.

Alchison with a fall of nearly 3 points, set the pace for a weak market in rails.

Coppers were in supply, Cerro de Pasco falling 3 points. Utilities, which had been moving in a relatively narrow range in recent sessions, suffered losses exceeding a point. Oils were under pressure and the rest of the market displayed a weak uncertainty.

Foreign bonds suffered wide losses in a lower bond market. There were no nearby bids for Czech issues. Wheat was strong while cotton dropped 50 cents a bale. Foreign exchanges hit new lows for several years.

Czechs Demonstrate Against a Surrender

Thousands of Czechoslovak citizens are shown jammed into the square in front of the Parliament building at Prague, in wildest demonstration against the weakness of the government which bowed to the Anglo-Nazi deal for cession of the Sudeten territories. LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—"SUCH MEN ARE DANGEROUS"

IF I'D GONE ON FOR SIXTY-NINETY DAYS IT COULD HAVE RUINED ME—JUST LUCK I FOUND OUT IN TIME—ACE SWEARS HE WAS FOOLED, TOO—HM-M-M—A WONDER

I WAS A FOOL—SUCKED IN TO BID ON AND GET THAT CONTRACT WITH A DEAD-BEAT OUTFIT

BAH! SUPPOSE HE WAS DOUBLE-CROSSING IS BAD ENOUGH—BUT STUPIDITY CAN BE WORSE—STILL, NO USE TO BREAK WITH ACE YET—HE MAY STILL BE USEFUL TO ME—

AS IT STANDS HE MAY HELP ME A LOT—NO USE PICKING TROUBLE WITH HIM JUST YET—THE WAY HE WHIPS OUT THAT PISTOL—BR-R-R—THAT FELLOW IS DANGEROUS—

OTHER PREACHERS ARE RE-APPOINTED

Arlington Avenue Free Methodist church of New Castle received a new pastor at the Oil City Conference which has just closed at Warren, Pa. Rev. Paul Millard will come from Duke Center, Pa., succeeding Rev. Frederick Smith, who has been transferred to Sheffield, Pa.

Rev. F. W. Parks was re-appointed pastor of the Dewey Avenue church of New Castle and Rev. John Barger was re-appointed pastor of the Coaltown church.

Local friends are interested in learning that Rev. David Joseph, former Sunday school superintendent for the Arlington Avenue church, and local preacher, has been appointed to his first charge, in Mercer.

A New Castle man, A. M. Brown, was highly honored at the Warren meet in being elected one of the lay delegates to the next general church conference.

SEEKS WORD OF SISTER IN FLOOD REGION OF EAST

A Neshannock avenue woman made efforts today to communicate with a sister in Wood Ridge, N. J., a town she believed felt some of the force of last week's disastrous hurricane.

Mrs. Ann Castele, 494 Neshannock avenue, told The News that she wrote her sister, Mrs. Delores Walsh, immediately after the storm. She has tried unsuccessfully to reach her several times. Today she continued her efforts.

No word whatever has been received by Mrs. Castele from Wood Ridge.

Try maple instead of brown sugar mixed with cinnamon to make cinnamon toast. Roll hot doughnuts in the mixture, or add a little butter, enough light cream to moisten, and ice layer or cup cakes with it.

Then here's good news for you in case you need a good general system tonic—just take famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Pictured is the actual firing of one of the U. S. Army's 3-inch anti-aircraft guns during the country's greatest peace-time anti-aircraft gun maneuvers, at Fort Bragg, N. C. The gun pictured is firing at a target (sleeve about 20 feet long) towed 1,000 yards behind a plane flying at an altitude of about 15,000 feet.

News Briefs From City Hall

When a woman engaged in religious work for the Salvation Army laid down her pocketbook Saturday night in South Jefferson street, someone stole it, police were told. The pocketbook contained $14.00.

Boys were disorderly in several actions last night. Police tried to catch some of them who were alleged to have stood on the Boyles avenue bridge and dropped tomatoes upon automobiles ascending and descending Rural avenue hill.

Police were asked today to watch for Chevrolet truck, owned in Fairmont, W. Va., and carrying West Virginia license K2472. It was stolen yesterday. The owner believes, police were told, it was taken by a young man who wanted to come here to see a girl friend.

TWO ARE FINED

George Murphy and Clyde Beighley were each fined $5.00, in police court yesterday, the result of a fight in North Mill street, Saturday. Earl Beighley was discharged without a fine. The argument developed from Murphy's alleged attempt to remove tires he claimed had been bought but not paid for.

Fireworks Bill Is Up Tonight

Also Bill To Transfer Mental Hospitals To The State Will Be Up For Passage

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Sept. 26.—Bills to regulate the sale of fireworks and to transfer mental hospitals to the state head the legislative program of the general assembly which meets again tonight and verbal pyrotechnics are promised for both.

Various bills have been introduced in both houses to regulate the sale of fireworks and these have been whittled down until only two remain, one in each house. One bill introduced was found upon study to be so stringent that it would have prohibited the firing of a last salute over the body of a deceased veteran or soldier.

The three Shapiro bills which seek to place the ownership and control of mental institutions in the hands of the state have passed the senate and are now before the house. The key bill is now on second reading and is almost sure to provide a verbal onslaught from those who recommended a recompense to counties and cities before they hand over their mental institutions, 13 in number.

Also before the legislature for action are four bills which seek to aid the anthracite industry. A second hearing on the measures before the House Mines and Mining Committee will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock.
